Parents

GetNetWise

www.getnetwise.org

Advises adults as to what information children are able to access online, and how to instruct kids and teens to view age-appropriate material while protecting their privacy on the internet. For every section, there is information to learn about the specific problem one is facing online, what tools may be used/purchased to cope with it, and how to take action by reporting the problem to authorities.

Childnet International

www.childnet-int.org/

Website for parents, educators, children, and teens. Parents portion provides resources for parents to help their children use the internet constructively, helps individuals acquire “net-literacy” skills, provides parents with awareness as to what content is available online, and advocates against child exploitation.

CyberAngels

www.cyberangels.org

Offers tutorials on website and through online classes to make parents, educators, and law enforcement officials more familiar with the internet. Provides safety tips for adults on relevant topics of interest, such as basic security, chat & IM, online shopping, file-sharing, and online dating. Features information to help protect children online, but also provides age-appropriate information for adults looking to browse the web themselves. Assists victims of internet crime, including threats and harassment.

NetSmartz

www.netsmartz.org

Website providing resources for parents looking to keep kids safe online. Highlights the risks of unmonitored use of the internet, and provides real-life stories, online activities suitable for children, printable internet safety pledges, and current news concerning internet safety.

SafetyEd International

www.safetyed.org

Website includes a series of articles directed at parents promoting internet safety education, child advocacy, and child protection. Also includes separate articles and advice for educators and librarians regarding internet safety.

WiredSafety

www.wiredsafety.org

Provides information for parents at all levels of internet comprehension. Includes introductory material as well as advanced descriptions of specific websites and problems one may encounter while online. Handles cases of cyberabuse including harassment, identity theft, scams, fraud, and missing children.

Teens/Children

www.childnet-int.org/youngpeople

Website for both teens and children to interactively explore the constructive uses of the internet and the dangers of functions such as chat, email, and instant messaging.

ChatDanger

How to Keep Safe While Chatting Online

www.chatdanger.com

Aimed at children and young teens. Provides real-life stories about the potential dangers of chat and instant messenger, and gives advice on what to do in specific situations.

NetSmartz Kids

www.netsmartzkids.org

Website for children to encourage safe use of the internet through interactive games and animated videos.

TekMom's Search Tools

www.tekmom.com/search

Website includes heavily-filtered safe search engines for kids, as well as search engines for students looking to find information in a specific discipline (history, science, etc.)

Chatrooms

Kid's Turn Chat

www.kidsturncentral.com/chatindex.htm

Monitored chat rooms for children and teenagers. Room is only open when adult monitor is available, and abusive language, provocative conversation or usernames, or asking for specific information (ex. Street address) is not tolerated.

ChatDanger

www.chatdanger.com/chat

Aimed at children and young teens. Provides real-life stories about the potential dangers of chatrooms, makes a distinction between good and bad chatrooms, and gives safety advice for how to protect oneself and one's privacy while chatting.

Stalking

www.cyberangels.org/security/stalking.html

Department of Justice
